What do you need to open a bank account?

Luckily, there's not too much! However at the least UK students will be required to show:

- One or two forms of photo ID: such as a passport or driver's licence
- Proof of address: such as a recent utility bill or bank statement
- Proof of student status: a letter of acceptance from your university, or UCAS offer letter.

Most banks now allow you to apply online for a student bank account, but you will still have to send off supporting documents or take them into your local branch. Documents must be original copies, not photocopies.

Once you've opened a new account, be sure to update Student Finance of your new bank account details (you can do it online).

Working while you study

Part-time work

At Coventry University we realise that working part-time while studying is a necessity for many students – be it to cover living and academic expenses or to just to earn a bit of extra spending money. But money is not the only thing you can gain from part-time work. It's a great way to gain real, first-hand experience of the world of work and you may be able to get some experience in the field you wish to pursue. However, remember – if you're a full-time student, it will be just that: full-time, so be realistic and make sure that you are confident that you can manage your work and study time effectively, so you don't compromise reaching your full potential.

Based in theHub, thefutureworks is the University's own commercial recruitment agency, which provides a choice of flexible temporary opportunities for students.
